Anne Frank
By: David Kessler

Anne Frank, born a Jew
Overcame World War II
Had some friends, but couldn’t play
Until one day, when everything changed.

She had a book and wrote all day
Happiness finally found its way
The attic is where she had to stay
She was there almost all day.

Anne Frank had a light
Everyday she hoped inside
Even when her place was grave
She loved and laughed on her darkest days.

She had many reasons to be sad
And didn't chose to get mad
Her hope stayed bright
Just like her light.
